The Bradford Management Group uses this formula of diligence and solutions to transcend an organization from the current "as-is" to a desired "to-be"; a "to-be" defined as success by the executives, the customers, the employees, and the community of that organization. Solutions at the nexus of law, policy, and business.

You have a challenge that crosses boundaries: a regulatory threat with a challenging political dimension. A strategic alliance which requires you to master a new range of policy. A Congressional or agency investigation that creates a crisis atmosphere. A government contract that demands a new set of business skills.

The usual professional services firm don't seem to fit. The government affairs firms won't go into sufficient depth. The PR firms don't understand the regulatory or business nuances. The large law firms don't understand the politics -- and are far too expensive.

The Madison Law & Strategy Group, P.L.L.C., has a team of skilled, bipartisan counselors providing expert advice at the intersection of law, policy, and business. In concert with our consulting partner, Madison Strategies, L.L.C., we tailor solutions for clients demanding political savvy, legal wisdom, and sound business judgment.

Our team has deep and broad experience. We've successfully counseled clients on litigation matters with political dimensions, policy enterprises inflected by ongoing legal issues, and state regulatory opportunities impacted by federal policy. We've worked with a range of entities, including Fortune 500 companies, large non-profits, private equity organizations, and venture-funded start-up businesses. We've also represented presidential campaigns, large non-profits, and foundations.

And the high quality of our work is supported by training from the nation's top law schools and graduate programs and professional experience at the world's top law firms.

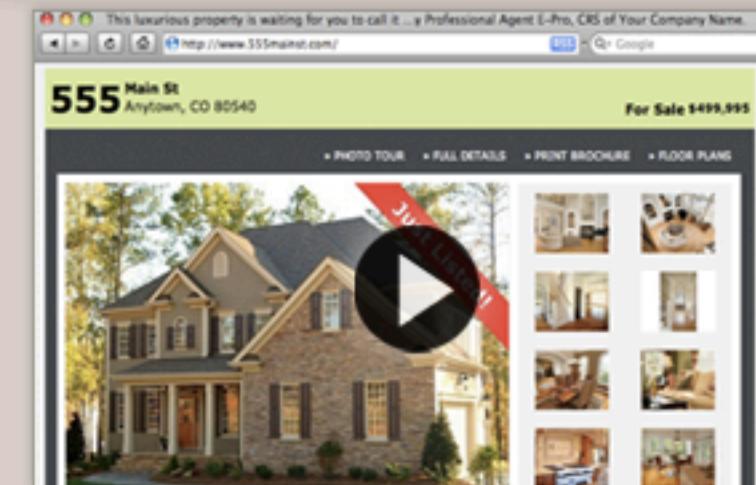

Contact us for a consultation.

We look forward to helping you master change.
